

Request for Special Consideration Form

Some applicants with otherwise excellent academic records are faced with serious personal, health or financial circumstances that negatively affect their performance. If the resulting average falls within a few points of the requirement for admission, and the applicant has provided sufficient supporting information in advance (see below), the Admissions Committee may give special consideration. Although we cannot guarantee admission, we can guarantee that every case will be reviewed on its individual merits.

If you wish to request special consideration, please complete this form and upload it along with the appropriate supporting documentation at 'Check Status' on the Join U of T admissions website: join.utoronto.ca by February 15. (Do not submit this form or supporting documents in the mail; mailed documents will not be added to your application.) Requests received after this date will be processed if space permits and at the discretion of the Admissions Committee. Special Consideration requests received by the deadline will be reviewed in the May admission round with decisions being released in late May.
